A well-established and highly accomplished group of singers, North Cotswold Chamber Choir has been entertaining audiences in the area since 1992.

We tackle a wide variety of repertoire old and new under a range of fine conductors, not least our principal (since 2009), Sarah Tenant-Flowers. We also work with Bob Chilcott, Jeremy Jackman, Peter Hunt, and our guest conductors include Matthew Smallwood and David Bednall.

Recently our repertoire has included Bach Cantatas in Chipping Norton; Miserere (Allegri, and James Macmillan) in Deddington; Valiant-for-Truth by Vaughan Williams in Hook Norton, and we have also performed a number of lighter tea-time or supper programmes.

We would love to hear from good singers (all voices) with confident sight-reading and some experience of choral singing.

KEEPING IN TOUCH

We've decided to rebuild our mailing list from scratch.

If you would like us to keep you informed about our plans for the future, including details of concert programmes and repertoire, then please let us know.

We won't pass on your details to anyone else, or do anything with your data other than let you know about our activities.

You can also leave your contact details on the door at any of our concerts.
